ORLANDO, FL - Life Settlement Review has announced its first annual list of the 10 most influential people in the life settlement industry. The list appears in the April issue of the monthly e-magazine, which features news, business briefs and expert analysis of the secondary market for life insurance.

The ten people chosen represent various segments of the industry, but they all have proven their power to change and influence others in this field. The editors did not base their selection on factors such as past accomplishments and longevity but rather on the individual's ability to alter and shape the current regulatory, legislative and economic forces that guide this market.

Life Settlement Review asked its readers to nominate candidates who they felt deserved this prestigious honor. Doug Head, executive director of the Life Insurance Settlement Association (LISA), requested that his name be omitted from consideration due to his position as publisher of Life Settlement Review. The publication did not attempt to rank each member of the group in regards to their level of influence. It aimed instead to highlight these individuals so that our readers can learn more about the people who are widely recognized as leaders by their peers.

Here is the complete list in alphabetical order by last name:

Alan Buerger, CEO, Coventry, Fort Washington, Pa. Brian Casey, Partner, Locke Lord Bissell & Liddell LLP, Atlanta, Ga. Mike Fasano, CEO, Fasano Associates, Washington, D.C. Bryan Freeman, President and Managing Member, Habersham Funding, LLC, Atlanta, Ga. Kurt Gearhart, President, Institutional Life Markets Association, Washington, D.C.
